

Winter Abroad, 2018

Havana, Cuba

For more information contact
Dr. Steven Osuna
Dept. of Sociology
Steven.Osuna@csulb.edu

January 2 - January 19, 2018

Application Deadline:
October 15, 2017

To apply for the program:

https://global.ccpe.csulb.edu/index.cfm?FuseAction=Programs.ViewProgram&Program_ID=10352

Approximate Travel Cost: $ 2,170

(Accommodations, daily breakfast, nightly dinner, conferences, Cuban visa, excursions, site visits, and Cuban Medical Insurance)

Tuition: $897

Insurance: $90

Total: $3,157 (flight not included)

CHLS 430:

The Latinx Experience in the Caribbean:
Imperialism, Reform, and Revolution (3 units)

This course will discuss the vexed relationship between Cuba and the United States of America through the exploration of imperialism, reform, and revolution. The study of the relationship between these two nation-states serves as a case study for understanding transnational processes and the role of political economy, geopolitics, social struggle, and the role of nationalism, race, class, gender, and sexuality in shaping Latinx societies and cultures both in the homelands and in the diaspora.

Activities include: Workshops, lectures, art museums, historical tours, some excursions, and site visits, with the co-sponsorship of the Institute of Philosophy, member of the Cuban Academy of Sciences.

OPEN TO ALL MAJORS (as well as staff, faculty, alumni, and community members on a space available basis). Faculty permission required. Lectures and workshops will be both in English and Spanish.

ASI-CSULB Study Abroad Scholarship

To apply for a $750 study abroad scholarship:

http://global.ccpe.csulb.edu/index.cfm?FuseAction=Programs.ViewProgram&Program_ID=10359

Short Term Study Abroad

In partnership with

The Center for International Education